

Aviation Ships

Attack Carriers (CV, CVA, CVB, CVL, CVAN, CVN)

The Navy established the CVB and CVL designations within the original CV designation on 15 July 1943. CVA replaced CV and CVB on 1 October 1952; CVL went out of use on 15 May 1959. CV and CVN replaced CVA and CVAN, respectively, on 30 June 1975 to designate the multi-mission character of aircraft carriers after the last CVS decommissioned in 1974.

During U.S. involvement in WWII (7 December 1941 to 2 September 1945) the Navy operated 110 carriers (including those designated CV, CVE, and CVL) of which 102 were commissioned in that period. The Navy also operated two training carriers during the war with the designation IX; Sable (IX 81) and Wolverine (IX 64).

* Projects 27A and the first 27Cs are axial deck modernizations; all others are angled deck conversions. For more detail, see chronology entries for 4 Jun 1947, 1 Feb 1952, 2 Sep 1953, and 27 May 1954.

† Experimental angled deck installation completed Dec 1952.

Note on Decommissioning Dates: The Navy decommissioned and then recommissioned a number of carriers for further service. Only the final decommissioning date is listed for these ships. Several carriers were also placed out of commission during major renovations or yard periods. In some cases the records regarding decommissioning dates were incomplete; consequently, the decommissioning date is blank if unknown.

• Construction of hull numbers omitted above were either terminated or cancelled. Numbers 35, 46, and 50–55 were scheduled for Essex class; 44, 56, and 57 for Midway class; and No. 58 for United States.

• The contracts originally let for CV 59 and 60 (Forrestal and Saratoga) did not include an angled deck in their designs. In 1953 the Navy redesigned the flight deck plans for Forrestal to incorporate an angled landing deck, and made similar changes to the designs for Saratoga. The contract for Forrestal was awarded in 1951 and for Saratoga in 1952. The contract for Ranger and Independence (CV 61 and 62) were not awarded until 1954. Therefore, the original contract designs for Ranger and Independence would have included an angled deck, and Ranger (CVA 61) thus became the first carrier designed and built as an angled deck carrier.

Escort Carriers (AVG, ACV and CVE)

The Navy assigned the original escort carrier designation AVG (Aircraft Escort Vessel) on 31 March 1941. The classification was changed to ACV (Auxiliary Aircraft Carrier) on 20 August 1942 and to CVE (Escort Carrier) on 15 July 1943. The CVE designation went out of use when the remaining escort carriers were reclassified AKV (Aircraft Ferry) on 7 May 1959.

World War II Training Carriers

During WWII the Navy's requirements for pilots provided an increased demand on the training command for carrier flight decks for carrier qualification training. To alleviate the need to take a front line carrier out of action for qualification training, the Navy acquired two vessels that had operated on the Great Lakes and converted them to training carriers with the designation IX, miscellaneous auxiliary.

^{*} During this reporting period, 1981–1996, the total carriers listed under CV does not include the carrier undergoing a major Service Life Extension Program.

[†] Includes all designations—CV, CVA, CVB, CVAN, and CVN—that have been used for the fleet carriers; missions the same.

[‡] These LHA/LPH/LHDs are counted the same since mission is very similar.
